ANNEXURE I

EXTRACT FROM PAGE NO. 73 AND 134 OF THE DRAFT FIFTH FIVE YEAR PLAN OF THE DEPARTMENT OF HORTICULTURE

Scheme for incentives to the fruit growers/Scientists for new inventions and Research (0.50 lakhs)

Improvement in the technology of field sciences is a sort of a chain and an ever continuing process. After certain proved varieties have been evolved, work in any experimental station does not come to a dead level. Similarly, there is a great scope in the improvement of the methodology for carrying out various management operations.

The Sources which generate the knowledge and information on the modern methods of Agricultural production are:—

1. Successful farmers who have made innovations.
2. Institutions where research aimed at finding solution to farmers' problems is conducted and which have tested the practicability and economic benefits of the findings of research conducted by them or adopted from elsewhere.

In order to sustain the tempo of research and inculcate the spirit of research even among the farmers; it is necessary that the contributions made by the fruit growers/research scientists/extension workers with regards to the improvement in Horticultural plants/ methodology, is given proper recognition by the State by providing State patronage and social justice. It is proposed that works of such fruit growers who made innovations and the research workers who contribute towards the solution of important problems, are given due recognition through the award of prices/rewards which satisfy their psychological needs and aspiration.
